Wolves

Wolves are wild animals that look like big dogs. They live and hunt in family groups called packs. A pack is usually a mother, a father, and their young. Working together helps wolves hunt large animals like deer and elk.

Wolves talk to each other in many ways. They howl to call the pack together or to warn other wolves to stay away. They also growl, bark, and use their tails and ears to show how they feel. Wolves can run fast and travel many miles in one day.
